

NICK & LINDSAY

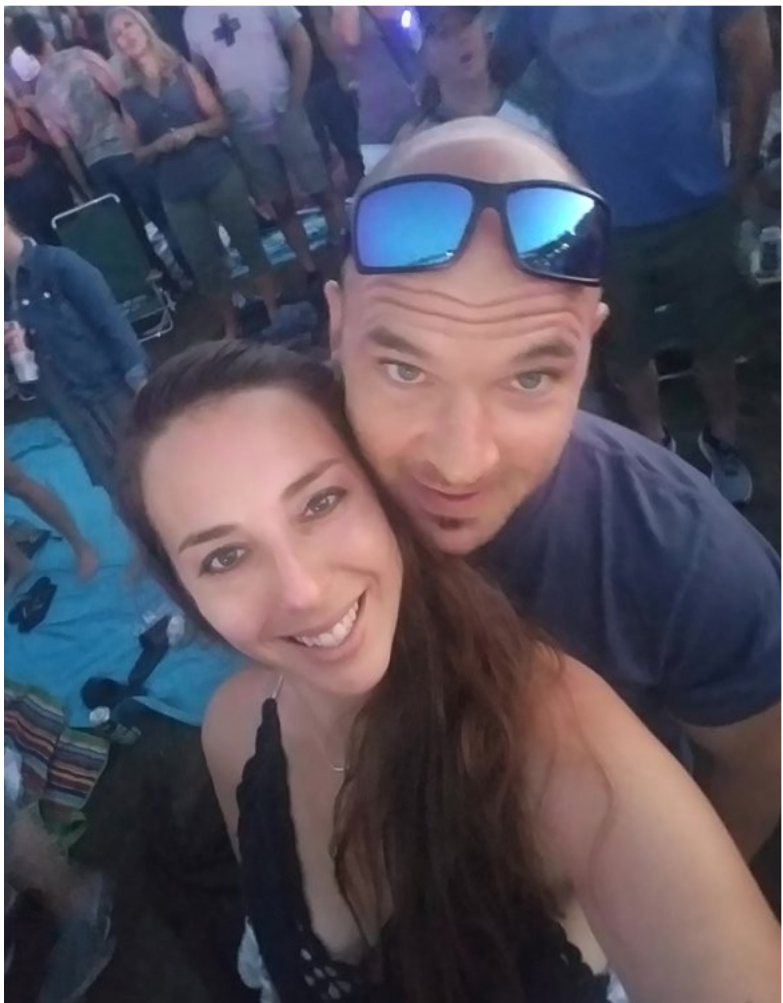

About Us

We are Nick and Lindsay. We really appreciate you taking the time to read our profile. We hope it helps you learn more about us and the love we have to share with another child.

We met and fell in love in high school. Somewhere down the road in our timeline, we realized we were truly meant to be together and start a family. We got the first part, but unfortunately fertility was a struggle in starting a family. However, even after being given a very grim outlook on natural conception, we somehow got pregnant. It was a miracle that is our now four-year-old daughter, Annabella.

We always knew we had so much love to give and wanted a bigger family, but were quickly faced with the same issues we had before our daughter. So, we thought about and researched adoption. It seems like such a loving choice! We have always wanted two children, and we hope to make that dream a reality through adoption.

Lindsay

Lindsay loves to be at home with her family. She is a thoughtful, nurturing, and loving person and mother, who likes to laugh and be silly. Family, and friends that have become family, are extremely important in her life. Her natural intuitions are to make others feel thought about, special, and loved. She's an incredible role model with instinctive qualities that many people struggle to achieve. She is patient, understanding and an excellent mentor for our entire household. Anyone who knows Lindsay can rely on her encouragement, empathy, loyalty and honesty to support them.

Lindsay's love and thoughtfulness genuinely shine through in almost all her actions. She sacrificed her 10 year career at HBO to be able to spend more time with her family. Then, she taught herself how to become a successful baker focusing on healthier, more nutritious baked goods.

All Lindsay has ever wanted is to have the same happy, fulfilling family and home that she grew up with. I know she cannot wait to share our loving, generous and spiritual life and home with another child.

Nick

Nick is a hands-on dad; from diapers, to playtime, to explanations on life - he does it all. He doesn't shy away from tough subjects. He is loving, imaginative, intelligent and a great leader. His creativity always shines through in all decisions in his life; whether it be in business or playtime.

One thing that I admire about Nick is that he sets goals for himself and works extraordinarily hard to achieve and surpass them. He is always thinking of ways to take care of his family. He started his own business with his father about six years ago and has watched it grow incredibly. His life has taken him many places but his favorite would be at home with his family. His spirituality keeps him grounded and is such an important part of his life.

Nick is innately trustworthy. His judgement and confidence in everything he does allows those around him to feel comfortable. His warm heart balances his logical problem solving perfectly. No matter the circumstances he always finds a way to fix something, make it work or lead himself and his loved ones to success. Nick has always said he just wants to enjoy his life. He strives to not only be comfortable and enjoy all situations, but to share that joy with those he loves.

Big Sister Annabella

Annabella is an enthusiastic, dramatic, loving little girl. She loves to sing, dance, pretend and play with just about anyone that she can! She enjoys going on adventures, whether they be in our own home or running errands around town. She bakes and does crafts with Mommy and runs around the house pretending she is Peter Pan and Wendy with Daddy. She has a great spirit and an incredible love for life!

Annabella cannot wait to be a big sister one day. And she has all the makings of a great one. She is gentle when she needs to be, but also makes sure to protect where she sees fit. At just four-years-old she has started asking more about having a baby sister or brother. No matter the age difference, we feel they would be close for life. We are very close with all of our family and Annabella has been raised to understand how important family is. Having a baby brother or sister would definitely be her greatest adventure of all!

Our Home

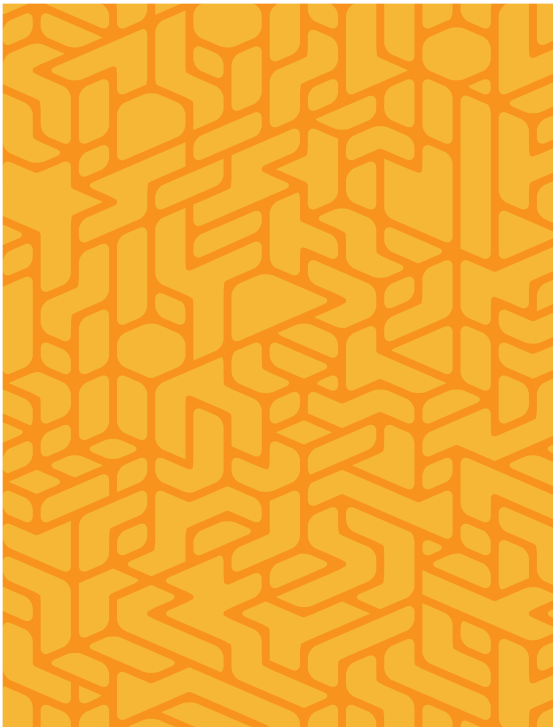

Our home is cozy and special to us, and it usually smells of some sort of baked good. It looks fairly tidy, but there are always toys out in multiple rooms from whatever we were pretending or creating earlier. There is always music playing or perhaps a movie to watch. The laundry may never be quite caught up on, but there is always love and laughter!

When it is warm outside, you can find us in the backyard. We're often swinging on the swing set or playing frisbee with our sweet dog, Maisie. We enjoy spending time together as a family and the energy in our home represents that.

We live in a great community with so many options for schooling, some rated very highly in the state. There are endless options for kids' extracurricular activities, whether it be theater, sports or something in between. When shopping for a school for our daughter we happened upon one we loved and turned out my mother's first cousin ran the school! There was no greater comfort than that.

We love where we live, as we are close enough to our parents, siblings and other family. We could get to them and vice versa quickly. We also have our own beautiful community of friends and neighbors and see many familiar, warm faces each day around town.

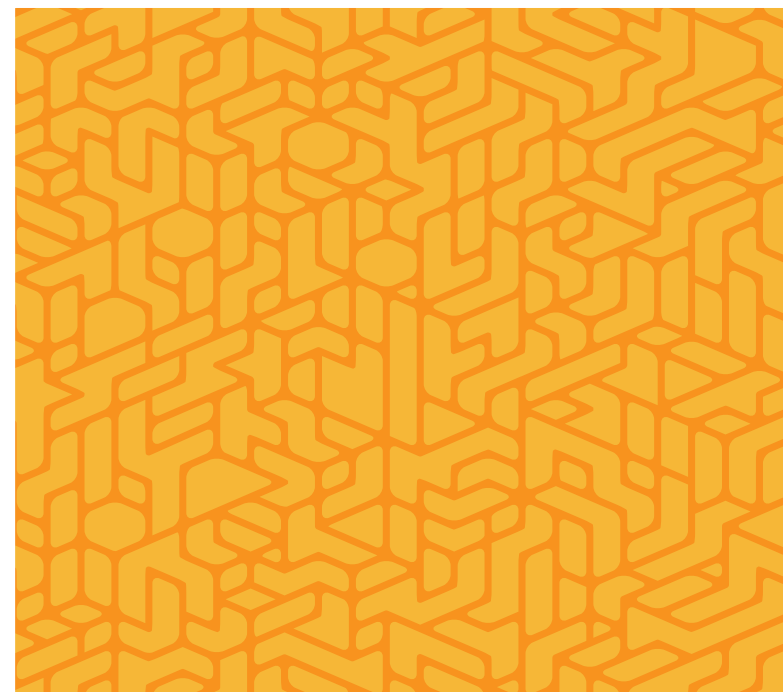

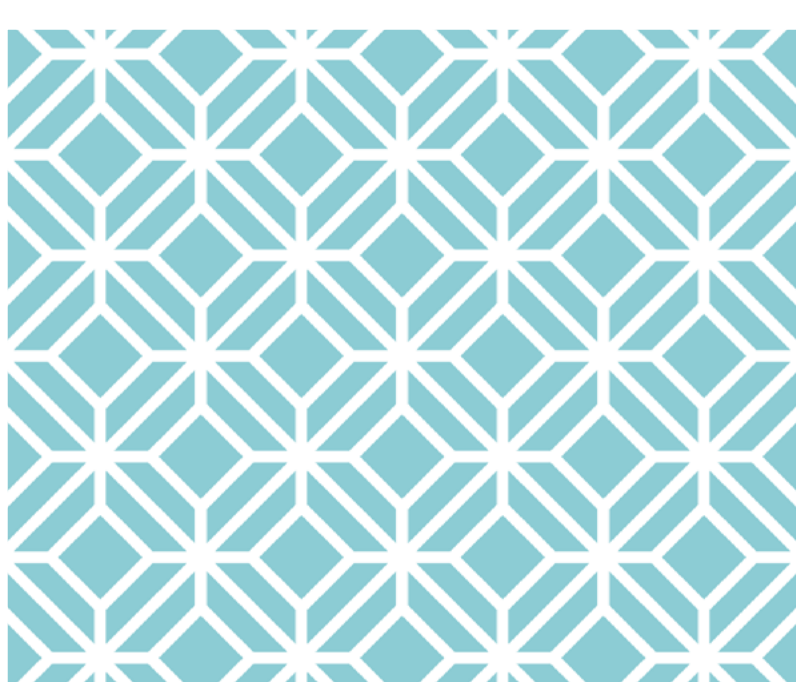

Our Life

We have always loved to travel, whether it be alone, with our daughter or with our extended families - it has created amazing memories for our family. Annabella got her first passport before her 1st birthday so she could join us in many of these experiences. We love to enjoy new places; their food, activities and culture. We always make sure to go on adventures while traveling as well as when we are home. Whether it be incorporating a bike riding exploration or some local activity or festival- we love to experience it all. Music has always been a big part of our lives as well. We often go to concerts or just listen to and play new and old music at home.

We are very close with both of our parents who each live about an hour away. They all play a special role in not just our lives, but in Annabella's too. Lindsay grew up with Jewish traditions, while Nick grew up with Christian traditions. We like to create a more spiritual home with traditions based on our upbringings incorporated. We believe in being good people, trying our hardest to be honest and thoughtful in life, and loving each other through it all.

Family vacation to Cabo, Mexico- enjoying some of the local activities!

In Closing

Thank you, again, for considering us and peeking into our lives a little. We can only assume that this is not a decision taken lightly; and we understand the magnitude of a choice like this. We would forever be grateful for the opportunity to share our love and expand our family.

If we are fortunate enough to add to our family through adoption, we would feel it important to be honest with the child and to help them understand how they came to be a part of our family. We would also love to honor requests for photo updates and are flexible on any other future requests involving possible updates, conversations or even meet ups as seen fit and necessary.

Thank You!
